We are a digitally native company where innovation, design and engineering meet scale. We use the latest technologies in the digital and cognitive field to empower organizations in every aspect. We want you to join us to work for the biggest clients in tech, retail, travel, banking, ecommerce and media, revolutionizing and growing their core businesses while helping them (and you!) stay ahead of the curve. Be part of a company with the most cutting-edge practices and technologies plus a unique team.

What are we looking for?

We are looking for an Adobe Experience Manager Back-End developer to join our team! The BE dev for AEM will play a vital role in the development, design, testing and deployment of WCM/WEM solutions and next generation web content management systems (WCMS). You will work closely with clients, developers, system administrators, project managers, business analysts and end users to build a state-of-the-art WCMS and solutions.

What will help you succeed

- Software development experience, mostly Java
- Minimum of 1 year of experience working with AEM
- Thorough understanding of the building blocks of AEM
- Experience extending AEM basic functionality, administrative areas
- Design, develop and support WCM components, integrations and applications
- Working knowledge and understanding of the following frameworks: JCR, Apache Sling, Apache Felix, OSGi, REST, JavaScript, JSON.
- Experience working with MAVEN, being familiar with any AEM MAVEN archetype
- Experience with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and AJAX
- Capability to design and improve internal development methodologies

You will get a chance to

- Design efficient content models, security models, workflows and templates
- Effectively communicate design to customers and present design options/considerations
- Help to establish overarching program goals and objectives in the WCM program at a customer
- Develop AEM templates and workflows leveraging current AEM software releases using AEM

Components and J2EE skill set

- Employ strong coding standards for efficiency, readability and reuse
